

ANNETTE WARNER Floor Talk

FREE

Friday 9 November
11am - 12pm

RSVP essential 03 9789 1671
info@mcclllandgallery.com

Atlas of memory: (re) visualising Gordon Ford's natural Australian garden

presents research by Annette Warner, School of Ecosystems & Forest Sciences, University of Melbourne. The exhibition comprises diverse archival material relating to the influential practice of mid to late 20th Century landscape designer Gordon Ford. Ford was recently recognised as a person of National Significance for his contribution to an Australian naturalistic approach to landscape design. Historically he is linked to the development of the Eltham creative movement and significant figures such as the architect Alistair Knox, photographer Sue Ford and other well known artists, writers and designers of this time.

Image top left: Annette Warner, Atlas of Memory: (re)visualising Gordon Ford's natural Australian garden installation view. Photography Christian Capurro.
Image above: attributed to Sue Ford, Untitled, location unknown, c1965-70. Archive of late Gordon Ford.

Join us on Friday 9th November at 11am as Annette discusses Gordon Ford's complex archive, his influences and legacy.